Mandy Steuber has invented all her butter and egg money in movie magazine subscriptions.

The production of "Polecat Ivy" was delayed while Jackson Gordon, the movie star, changed from a hard-boiled to a soft shirt.

Hughie Mack, the heavyweight contender of the Vitaphone company, denies the report that he gained the weight from drinking goats milk. Hughie says he never made such a claim, for it would not be doing justice to a number of other drinks he could mention.

Director Colin Campbell has gone up into the mountains for complete quiet, where he will put the finishing touches on the script for "The Garden of Allah," the great Selig spectacular drama on which he will soon start production.

It was on one of those red hot days of last week, Miss Marie Shotwell was working in the studio in a scene for "Through the Open Door," a Thanhouser picture that is to be released through Vitaphone.

"It's a terrible day to work, isn't it?" said Ernest Ward, her director. "Yes," agreed Miss Shotwell, cheerfully, "but it's a more terrible day to hunt for work."

Clara Whipple, the pretty little actress who came from Canada last summer to become the leading lady for the Equitable company, has been put under a long term of contract by William A. Brady, director-general of the World Film corporation, an excellent has been her work in emotional roles.

William Tedmarsh, who will be seen in the sequel to "The Diamond From the Sky," which is just going into production, is an expert horticulturist. When he is not acting, he gives every spare moment to beautifying the American studio grounds which rival Central park in their spick and span appearance. Tedmarsh is unusually well posted on the care of flowers and his attention is given them from sheer love of the work.

E. H. Sothern and Edith Storey are busy engaged in "An Enemy of the King," by Robert N. Stephens. This is the play in which Mr. Sothern has appeared in all parts of the world and is one of his best-liked.

AT THE STRAND TODAY AND MONDAY.

vehicles. Vitaphone Director Fred Thomson is directing the production of the picture. An extra corps of workers has been engaged by the modiste department to assist them in the making of a large number of gowns for this picture.

Following immediately upon the announcement that William A. Brady and Richard Goodwell, executives of the World Film corporation, had signed Lew Fields and Marie Dressler to appear exclusively in World features for a term of years, comes the announcement that an extraordinary ten-reel feature picture to be directed by Maurice Tourneur at the Paragon studio of one of the most sensational melodramas of the age, "The Whip," the great Lew Fields success which took the country by storm a few years ago will be released in about three months.

Scenes representing the bursting of shells from enemy guns were photographed at Pittsfield, Mass., on Wednesday last for use in "The Battle of the Marston." To get the proper effect, Wally Van, who, with Earle Williams, journeyed to Pittsfield to take some exteriors for "The Scarlet Runner," in which he used a balloon, decided to photograph the exploding shells from above. With his cameraman he rose to a height of five hundred feet and "shot" down on the missiles as they landed. Wally has expressed the wish that he hopes the public will enjoy as great a thrill in the witnessing of the scenes as he had in the taking of them.

Mark Bennett, director general of the Keystone Film company, to conform with the edicts of Police Judge M. H. King of Santa Monica relative to the regulation length and style of bathing suits, has ordered the reconstruction of the famous Keystone bathing spot.

"KEystone PERCY" TAKES CURE.

Percy is threatened with a breakdown. What you don't know Percy. Why, Percy is the big, brown bear comedian of the Mack Bennett-Keystone studios. Percy has had a strenuous career since becoming a moving picture actor at the Keystone plant. Considerable nerve-racking work was forced upon him in the "Snow Cure," a recent Keystone comedy in which he had a more strenuous part than even Ford Sterling, who is himself a human dynamo of activity in the pictures. Some of the critics who reviewed the picture, humorously inspired and desiring to give credit where credit was due, referred to Percy as having shared honors equally with Sterling. The famous bear has Mr. Bennett's permission to remain away for a month. He will take his layoff on a ranch in the mountains.

IF HE'S A MAN HE ASKS A PRIVILEGE

William Farnum, the William Fox photoplay star, tells a new one about children's observations.

Mr. Farnum has a friend who also wears the Christian name of William. This second William has a little heir of three named Frederick. When Frederick's third birthday arrived, it was decided that the youth discard petticoats for a grown-up costume of knickerbockers. His mother, in honor of the memorable occasion, served a great cake and led the infant to the seat of grace in the dining room. "Ah," she exclaimed, "now you are a little man!"

THE END OF THE TRAIL, WILLIAM FARNUM

Is shown here in a scene from "The End of the Trail," a stirring drama of northern snows. As Jules Le Clerq, a French-Canadian factor in a Hudson Bay trading post, Farnum has exceptional opportunity for the display of his exceptional talent in depicting a strong, rugged, virile character of the frozen north. At the Majestic Tuesday and Wednesday.

BRASCOLITE

We want to show you by demonstration the actual working principle which makes the Brascolite so highly efficient. And at the same time that we are doing that we will prove to you by test and figures that the maintenance cost with the Brascolite system is less than with others, that it effects a saving in current consumption and that the cost of installation is less.

There's a Brascolite for every taste—every interior. Over a hundred standard designs for office, bank, club, church, theatre, restaurant, store, school, library, factory or home. We can show you some of these in fixtures—others we have detail pictures of.

The working principle of efficiency is the same in all cases—that we will show you when you
